

I am at a meeting with my mountain community listening to a local architect who has found a new law to block the building of my installation. I then give a clear speech against it but he continues talking and people leave the room. I then hold his hands and tell him that I have tried my best.

I am in the car with my old art professor driving across a valley but then a friend on the phone tells him to take a ferry. We get on one and he starts filming people inside while holding his old video-camera and smoking. He then gives me his phone number so that he can become my advisor.

I am in a night club when a beautiful girl starts dancing with me. She wants to kiss me but a mafia boss drags her away from me. We manage to get back together and ran out of the club. At last we reach a bedroom where my girlfriend and I want to make love with the girl but she is too young.

I am standing in the middle of a small square doing a performance. I have to keep on standing with my arms open and my naked chest but a famous Taiwanese performer wants to throw a sharp rock at me. I then stretch my back and he hits me with the rock without making me feel any pain.

I am in a big classroom filled with artists invited to an award ceremony. My name is actually called together with that on another girl and we get awarded for a paper we wrote together. I don't remember anything about it and think it must be special but everybody else in the room gets awarded.

I am in an empty studio looking around at the desks. They are positioned in a circle and on top of them there are neon lights with the email address of every worker. As I realize that the Jewish girlfriend of my Polish friend works there I see that the circular room is connected to an identical one.

I am looking at an old illustration of a small German town. There are some enemies boats shooting from the river below it but there are also boats with cannons in the village. The latter manage to sink one of the enemies boat and a knight inside is rescued with his horse by a creature in a cave.

I am in a restaurant with my best friend and his family. It is his birthday and I want to pay for our dinner so I go to the cashier to ask for the bill. The owner is Egyptian and starts measuring how much cheese we use in our pasta. He then writes the bill with hieroglyphics but it is not expensive.

I am in a shop asking a very pretty Russian lady working there for a nice beach. She suggests one that it is close by but it is next to a factory and the water is not clean. As I am about to leave the other Russian lady working there greets me and I realize she is much prettier than the other one.

I am in the small garden of a villa listening to two famous musicians playing different songs next to each other. I cannot hear any of the two songs and realize that my best friend is looking for his car keys. The villa owner has hidden them and I search for them inside the kitchen drawers.

I am in a hotel room watching a movie when there is an erotic scene. My girlfriend actually comes in and I change channel on time. As she actually starts looking for another movie I realize that the movie I was watching is still playing in another tag and she can easily switch to it.

I am in a co-working space and realize that one of the guys there is missing. Another guy tells me that the latter flew out of the building with a drone and purposely committed suicide. I then start crying thinking of the time we spent together and realize he has learned to draw from me.

I am in a staircase pulling out some weed. As I notice that it is always the same plant growing through the stone an older lady starts walking down. She is very rich and I wonder if she will notice me but she just walk past me and I realize that she has a very young and handsome boyfriend.

I am on the phone talking to an old cousin. She actually has the response from an art council and reads aloud the section about my project. They are granting me permission to make a documentary about a Brazilian protest and I tell her that I am happy about it but it is a dangerous task.

I am in a pub watching the bar tender who wants to change his clothes. I then tell him that there is a changing room and he gets in but then gets out all naked. He actually starts walking towards me and I realize he is gay but there is another gay guy next to me and he is very interested.

I am in the mountains with my step cousin and his dead father inspecting the site where I will build my installation. I show them the rocks I placed in the perimeter and we seat down for a picnic. As I show them where to pee I realize that there is still a pandemic and we need to keep distant.

I am in the kitchen of my apartment when a tenant renting my other apartment comes in. She is there to help me and ask if she can be paid anything but she is not paying the rent and I tell her than I can pay her a buck an hour. I then realize she wants the exact amount of the rent.

I am walking in front of a villa when I see pliers flying in the air. A mad Moroccan guy is throwing them from a shop and one of them almost hits another guy. I then realize that my girlfriend and our kids can be inside. I then immediately make it inside the villa to call my girlfriend to be careful.

I am outside of a big restaurant talking to the German owner. He is actually worried about a much smaller restaurant next door as it is going to be renovated and they have the right to put the scaffolding on the their restaurant. I then go in to check the other restaurant and find it quite okay.

I am in front of a modern church with a friend seating next to his new girlfriend. The latter is very pretty and I realize that she is way too beautiful for him. Another friend also thinks so and together with him we start singing some love songs but the pitch is too high and it sounds horrible.

I am in a bar sharing the bill with some other guys. One of them wants to give an extra buck to the waitress but I want to stick to the exact amount. I then search for coins in my wallet and find all sort of small precious stones. One of them is actually a creature that could spit against me.

I am walking along a river with my oldest son. We have actually already been there once to swim but I don't remember exactly where we got in the water. We anyway get in and the stream pushes us into a bigger river which slowly brings us to a German city with some traditional old buildings.

I am in an artist in residence building and get my own apartment. I anyway want to go to talk to the director and she shows me a gallery where they present the last supper they had with the previous artist. In the middle there is a smaller apartment with the artist seating among many books.

I am walking in a German city destroyed by the war. As I keep on looking for something nice to see I end up in a beautiful old square with a Christmas market. I then try to film it but a group of Polish guys keep in front of me. I am afraid they can steal my phone and I tell them to please move.

I am in a park with my Neapolitan friend and he starts singing a song. I then also start singing the same song but improvise a nice variation changing the pitch of my voice from low to high. He is really impressed and decides to invite me and my girlfriend to his birthday party the same evening.

I am in a small Chinese shop and wait my turn to buy a small relay. The shop assistant speaks English and just asks me the kind of volt power I need. I have no idea and decide to go for the middle one. He then opens the catalogue in the middle and paint it with a stick using green colour.

I am watching a movie about a band staying alone in a hotel. They are actually supposed to leave for a tour but the hotel gets surrounded by a right wing political group dressing black. As they give up their hope the military arrives with an helicopter to rescue them from the roof top.

I am in a small shop selling newspapers and I ask to see the local one from the previous day. There is supposed be a small article about my project but the show owner tells me that he has no copies left. As I am about to leave I realize that the article in on the cover of today's newspaper.

I am walking in a city and come to a big street where soldiers are parading with some hi-tech vehicles. As I inspect one I realize that an old Swedish friend is among them. I haven't met her in years and I make sure she gets my phone number but her phone doesn't work and she has to leave.

I am seating in front of the window of an old house with my old Dutch neighbour. There are a lot of wasps coming out of the rotten wood and I try to come close to her to make them fly away. She interprets that as an attempt to establish physical contact and she gets very close to me.

I am in a supermarket with my sister and as we walk next to a fridge compartment I realize that we are not wearing any masks. She immediately put hers on but I don't have one and try to improvise it. We are also supposed to wear protective glasses and I realize I am wearing reading glasses.

I am with some friends bathing in a small bay but the water is too dirty and they want to go out. I then propose to walk around it and see if we find another beach with cleaner water. One of them tells me that we were supposed to be on the best beach but I know that she is mistaken.

I am in front of my mountain village fountain talking to my girlfriend. She actually wants to convince two guests we have to have sex and I think she is kidding but as one of them arrives she invites her to go to the barn. I then walk the other way to prevent the other guest from going there.

I am walking with a of young protesters in a city suburb and meet another group of skinheads. We are both going to the city center and we seat below a tree to discuss how to do it. I then talk to the skinhead leader and tell him that we should confuse people by mixing ourselves with each other.

I am laying in a small field next to a forest looking at the sky. I then see a small cloud the was artificially created by a special robot in the shape of a smile. It is actually decomposing already but then I see two others and realize that if I look at them upside down they look like a very big smile.

I am on the first floor of the condominium when a guy leaving there brings some chairs up. He is actually supposed to bring them on the ground floor outside and I follow them with other chairs. We are organizing a dinner for all the people of the condominium but it suddenly starts raining.

I am in the apartment of an old cousin when my mother calls me and says that she is stuck in the traffic. I actually need to go to the station and decide to walk by myself. As I have already left the apartment I get a message from my cousin showing that I have left my house keys on the table.

I am in an airport waiting to check in. There are actually a lot of people in front of me and I notice a clock showing that the flight was already supposed to leave. I then get worried that it will depart behind me but a hostess reassure me that the depart time is more like the boarding time.

I am in a Brazilian city walking on a pedestrian bridge and reach the house of an homosexual couple. They are hosting me for the second time but I feel very embarrassed and wait for them in the living room. They seem also very awkward even though the first time we were put partying.

I am in a villa and decide to go for a bath with my daughter. There should be actually a beach down a cliff and we start walking on a big flat rock searching where to go down to the sea. We actually meet the villa owner and he seems very proud but I realize I like my mountain house better.

I am in a bathroom trying to brush my hairs after showering. I pull them up but they look ugly and I try to just pull them down on my forehead. They also look quite ugly and I am almost about to leave when I realize that they look quite okay if I keep them down and brush them to the middle.

I am walking in a big fair with a lot of young girls taking pictures in big beds with guys. As I walk across it I realize that they only want to take photos with black guys and I will certainly not be asked by any of them. I actually end up in a stand with Arab girls and they ask me to take a photo.

I am in a small island and notice a girl waiting on a round red peer in the ocean. I assume a rich yacht will pick her up and I also go wait there. As I do so a rich couple starts walking on the water towards me and immediately starts talking about their kid I will have to babysit in their villa.

I am outside a museum with my girlfriend and realize that it is closed on Mondays. There are two different restaurants we could go to instead. I then explain my girlfriend that one of them is small and indoor but we a friend works there and we can eat for free. She then chooses the other.

I am in an Italian city hall and have to sign a contract. I actually sign the second page but the secretary following my case tells me to sign also the first one. I then only put my initials in the bottom left corner and and write a professional formula telling her that I have done this many times.

I am in a train and end up in the last stop. I actually have no where to sleep and try to switch to a train going back the same way but it is full and it leaves without me. Two girls are left out and I hear that they are enrolling in an art academy. I then get in another train to show them my work.

I am in a park with a fat friend from the mountains and his kids. I am actually cutting a standing tree across with my chain saw. I start from the top and come down but realize that there are some new batteries inside. I then show them to my friend and he realizes that his kids put them inside.

I am in a big terrace talking on the phone to an eastern Europeans. He wants me to sell my own phone so that he can give it to an old Croatian lady. He tells me that in her village there is a powerful antenna downgraded to a weaker signal and that televisions are also used as transmitters.

I am walking up a dirt road with my youngest son in the stroller. There are a lot of rocks to avoid but he falls asleep and I start running. I actually end up at the bottom of a valley and there are too many rocks to keep going. I start moving them on the side but an old neighbour tells me off.

I am watching a documentary showing the new billboard installed outside an old Italian city. It also shows the previous ways with which the local authorities communicated to the citizens. They used to hang a banner on top of a palace and many around the statues standing inside it.

I am inside an abandoned church looking at two men doing maintenance work. They actually show me that they managed to bring back to the church a famous painting. It is now hanging over the altar and as I see that the frame is still dirty they tell me that they left the window open above it.

I am in the living room of a mountain apartment asking my girlfriend what kind of tiles she wants me to use to renovate it. She actually doesn't want any tiles and I tell her to please respect the time we spend in the mountains. She doesn't care about it and I jell at her that we can then split up.

I am in a garden looking at the stone sculptures of a Mexican artist. He recreated a sink and one of his assistants tries to sculpt it further. The stone is too hard for him and he wants me to try but I don't know where to start. He then tells me to sculpt between his fingers to make them curved.

I am driving in a dirt road but realize it is a dead end. I then try to back up but a big caravan blocks the road and I have to get off the car. There is a fake blond girl waiting there for the caravan to move and I start singing to her old Italian songs but she doesn't recognize any one of them.

I am in an attic furnished with my grandparents old stuff. A couple has just bought it and I put a pot with hot tea on the old wooden table. It makes a stain and I try to wash it away but it stays. I then remember that I once used a special product and I put it on filling up the circle I made.

I am in a big airport with my oldest son walking in front of me. We actually need to go through a security gate paying with our credit card and he rushes in front putting his on a reader. He is too fast and just pass without paying. I then put my card properly and pay quite a lot of money.

I am in a harbour with a southern Italian man. We are actually traveling together to an island but there are no ferries there and we think of going further south. A sailor overhears us and suggest to go to a city up north where there are seven ferries leaving for the island the next day.

I am seating in a small room with my dick out and I realize that there is a neighbour looking at me through her window. I then try to hid myself but realize that she is also not wearing any underwear. She actually opens and closes her legs knowing that I can see her but I realize she is a lesbian.

I am in a shop with my best friend and see an old video-game console. It is actually quite affordable and we decide to buy it together but the shop assistant brings us a new version of the console that it is more expensive. It doesn't look so good and I don't want it but my friend insists to buy it.

I am in a church carrying my daughter in my arms. We actually go to the top floor and find another church filled with people who are going to get married. I am also selected to get married and they bring me a cake with the name of my future partner. It turns out it is not a girl but a guy.

I am in a waiting room with my twin sister and look for a place where to seat. I actually find one next to an American girl and my sister manages to seat right in front of me. I want to talk to the girl but my sister leans towards me to talk about our parents and I also have to lean towards her.

I am in a small apartment with my best friend. I am actually supposed to leave there and he tells me that he also used to leave there when he was a student. As I am seating on a small sofa he shows me the chestnut pan with which he used to masturbate. I then wonder if he got all dirty.

I am in a park doing a picnic with my girlfriend and her Dutch friends. Among them is a black girl and I feel very glad that they are so inclusive. As I look at the way they interact with her I realize that she keeps on seating still and everyone is talking to one another but no one is talking to her.

I am working on my installation in the mountains when a friend shows up. He is actually standing on top of a hole I just dug and I cannot really tell who he is. As I come closer to him I realize that he is my old American friend. I want to greet him but I have been digging way too much down.

I am driving in a German highway with a girl. We actually need to get out of a city but I realize that we are driving towards it. I then see that there is an opening on my left and I turn there to get on the opposite lane. We actually end up in a round about that takes us back on the other lane.

I am walking in a city with a friend and come to a Japanese temple. It was built at the beginning of the previous century with giant stones and I ask my friend if he knows why. He cannot give me an answer and we keep on walking but end up in a commercial district with a dead end.

I am in a small ground floor apartment where a neighbour just moved in. She is quite happy about it even though before she used to leave in a bigger house. As she goes to the kitchen to cook she complains that there is a lot of cold air coming from the staircase and I tell her to install a heater.

I am in a field talking to my mountain neighbours about the vegetable garden I have just cultivated. It was actually on the very spot where they have been cultivating potatoes the previous years and they tell me to move it. I then realize that I have also planted potatoes and they won't grow.

I am with my mother looking for a clinic where I have a doctor appointment. I see one in a palace and we go inside although she doesn't think it is the one. We then walk down a long corridor decorated with ancient wood and reach a secretary but my mother tells her I have a dangerous virus.

I am seating in a bus going through the desert and listen to the radio. They are playing very nice old songs and I move to the front to be able to hear them better. I then realize that there are actually three young drivers and they are all Arabs. As I look at them I cannot find any nice feature.

I am in a cruise and it is time to disembark. I then lift a blond girl in front of me but then realize she has a boyfriend and I put her back down. The latter follows me and asks if I can please show his girlfriend the city. I then show him a path around a nearby field but he is not satisfied.

I am walking in a crowded tunnel looking for my girlfriend but cannot find it. I actually reach a road surrounding a big stadium and I realize she must be there dancing with other girls. I then continue walking and find her with her best friend dancing and drinking despite being both pregnant.

I am together with another gangster seating on a public toilette. We actually use an iron bar to get the pooh back up and look for jewelry hidden inside. A cop discovers it and the gangster uses a string to cut the nose to him and his small child. I then run to hide their noses in my bedroom.

I am in a small apartment with my daughter playing with another kid. As I look for his mother outside the door the woman living on the opposite side think that I want my daughter to play with her kids. They are just home from the swimming pool and she invites me to come but I ignore her.

I am in a restaurant and ask the bar tender for the exit. He then uses a very sophisticated name to tell me not to make to much noise. I then reply that it took me a while to understand it and he says that I am a retard but I do not react to the insult and try to look for the exit on the other side.

I am walking with a Canadian friend and his wife in an old city. I haven't payed too much attention to him but I anyway want to take them in an abbey. It is on the other side of the valley but they meet some friends and start chatting with them. They take a long time and I decide to go alone.

I am in a in a field covered with snow and decide to walk on a small stream. The water is not too deep and I have boots but when it gets deeper I find a path marked by horses. I then walk on it and reach a small cliff. As I look at it I realize that it is a giant face and it winks its eye at me.

I am on a ferry crossing an old city and realize that I brought a ladder along. As I try to move it the conductor gets angry about it. He then goes to his cabin and I wear my mask knowing that he is soon coming out again to check. I actually manage to tell everyone to wear it before he does so.

I am attending a presentation of different movies. My dead grandfather is actually facilitating it and I ask him when he think that it will be my turn to present. He then tells me that I am almost the last one and I will have to wait for the evening. It is still hours away and I decide to go to the city.

I am driving with my American assistant down a mountain and pass next to a guy plowing a field with a tractor. He looks very serious and doesn't even greet us but my assistant tells me that he has been messaging her. I then think that he is trying to flirt but he congratulate on my installation.

I am in a small stable talking to the owner. She then shows me that there is a beaver on top of a ball of hay. She wants me to put it back to its cage but I am afraid. She then stands up and takes a fox behind her. The latter is very quiet and she assures me that all foxes are not aggressive.

I am working on my installation and realize that my daughter is crawling above it. It is dangerous and I manage to get her down but the neighbour hunters comes to me. As he tells me how the politician fighting with him against me is totally mad I see my daughter walking down the precipice.

I am driving a motorcycle with an old cousin behind me and we reach the circular square of an old villa. I actually want to park next to some other motorcycles but she tells me that it is illegal. I am also a bit skeptical but then I see that the motorcycles are in front of an empty bike stand.

I am in a German city with my girlfriend and kids. We are walking over a pedestrian bridge and see a bombed church in front of us. As we walk down a ramp to see we find that it is extremely slippery. My girlfriend and the kids manage to go back up but I keep on sliding down from half way.

I am in an elevator with a girl coming really close to me. She wants to show me her black make up and as we get out of the elevator she wants to take me to her flat. We then start to walk through an old city and I realize that there are posters of a movie with her starring as the main actress.

I am in a shop and ask for a big bucket of epoxy paint. The shop assistant takes one to the cashier but I see that it is open. He then gets mad and starts smashing on the ground. I see that the paint has not dried inside and tell him to sell it to me anyway even though I don't know the price.

I am walking up a shopping mall carrying a gas tank. I then put in on an escalator and go up with it to the next floor where some guys are training. As I try to walk through them the tank falls next to a guy head. It actually doesn't make any sound and I realize that it is heavy but soft.

I am driving up a Sardinian town with my spiritual friend and I see that a cop is parked at a curve. He uses his hand to tell me to stop but I realize that my friend doesn't have any documents and I keep on driving. I take the first private road to the right and we almost end up in a precipice.

I am in a small apartment talking to a father and his son about an led sign I want to install in their property. They actually want too much money and I go to the kitchen without saying a word. The wife of the man is cooking and starts jellying at me that I should have accepted the deal.

I am in a modern Dutch cities with my aunts when a guy comes close to them and starts to hug them. As he starts to kiss them in the neck I go in a public toilette and he also comes in with them holding his dick out. He then pees inside the flush of the urinary making all the clean water dirty.

I am in a classroom assisting a professor. He actually starts treating me like a student and calls me out. He asks me about an old German philosopher and I know quite a lot about him. After listing a few contributions I want to talk about his relations to art but don't remember anything.

I am with two friends in front of my mountain apartment at night and see a war plane precipitating. We then go to rescue the pilot but my friends take him inside and plan to stab him to death. I then try to think on how he can escape and see that he can lay outside underneath the pine trees.

I am in a camera shop with two guys. The shop is closed and one of the guys uses is computer to temporary disrupt the surveillance system. I then find the exact same camera I have and think of stealing it to have a spare one. As I see the other guys stealing another camera I take mine.

I am in an old farm below the mountains talking to a Italian friend. He is traveling to his relatives down south and I promise to host him. As I go outside there is another Italian friend also traveling to his relatives down south and I also promise to hist him even though I have no more bedrooms.

I am walking with a girl on a mountain top with a huge crow waiting for the Fascist leader to show up. As people starts to precipitate we walk in a completely empty side of the mountain but a fascist guard tells us that his leader will not march through there. We don't care and go in a cave.

I am seating next to a hockey field and notice that the players are actually playing golf. They stand in a line and when the ball comes they pass it to one another without moving. The goal keeper has actually a welding machine and I ask one of the captains if I can also play but it is too late.

I am with my old Greek friend in an American city and he shows me the house he has built for a colleague. We actually go on top of the roof where he has cemented all the tiles and we look at the lights of the city in the dark. I am also curious to check behind us and realize that it is all desert.

I am on a beach drawing a matrix on the sand and hear my girlfriend talking to her friends about being raped by two different Arab taxi drivers. As we start walking together I realize that our two kids are then also Arabs. She denies it but I know explain why they have so many black hairs.

I am in a small street with my car parked in front of a gate. There is a sign saying I cannot park there but I am actually renting one of the two apartments of that house. I then call my neighbour to warn her about the car and she tells me that she has been already calling me before to greet me.

I am walking in a cemetery and see a church in the distance. I then walk towards it and find a nice square with two men performing in the middle. I want to film it but the camera is too shaky and a man is anyway walking towards me carrying a big trash bag. I film again trying to avoid him.