

I am at a seminar when my professor comes in saying that he made allot of corrections in my examination paper. I actually look at it and it is only one. I then walk away with my Polish colleague and tell him about it but he also think it is a big mistake. A gypsy man is also there and I greet him.

I am at a supermarket with my mother and father waiting in lay at the cash desk. My mother tells me that she is actually buying a small apartment for herself and wishes to buy a little one for me. I then worry that it might be too much money but she assures me that it is very inexpensive.

I take my son on the higher portico of a cathedral. There is actually a service below with allot of people attending. A punk band is playing and the singer improvises a song with invented words. I try to listen to them and recognize a couple. I then tell my son that they could have done it in Latin.

I am getting out of a station when I get a call from my uncle. The line is very disturbed but he actually found a small apartment by the sea for us to buy. I don't know the place but I reply that we are interested. As I am finally out of the station I tell him that I have already talked to my mother.

I am watching a program on a music channel with a fat English man fucking different prostitutes. I saw him on a Spanish beach and realize that I am actually there with his cameraman. He then shows me some caves on a cliff and then takes me down to swim with screaming small dolphins.

My Polish friend and I have a show in a big museum. We get two identical rooms and he starts carrying in a big painting. I want to install my drawings on the side walls but there are windows behind the curtains. I then go in the basement to pick my prints but can't find the door of our cellar.

I am seating in my studio and come in my pants without touching myself. I actually have a performance and my relatives are waiting. I then decide to draw and go in a shop to get a thick pencil. I find one but I realize that it is without tip. I then look into a one for carpenters but it is also tipless.

I am on a commuter train with my wife and kid. We actually have all our wardrobe on it and I get ready to go out. I can only carry a pile of sweaters and get in a jeep where my wife and kid are waiting when an old man sprints in front of us. He is playing mini golf wearing roller blades.

I am going back to my new place at night and hear some people lighting fireworks. I try to keep out of them and reach a square next to my place. There are black people laying down and I also lay down with them. The floor is actually very dirty and I decide to stand up and go home to sleep.

I get in my new apartment and discover a big new room with wooden floors. I then move in the apartment and find my parents eating in the small kitchen. I take them to see the room and my mother sees that there are rats but I discover a garden and we all go to eat there.

I meet my American curator friend and he shows me an hotel room where I can sleep. There are actually two girls already inside and one of them is quite cute. They go to bed and cover themselves under the sheet. I can only see their feet and don't know on which side is the cute girl.

I am with my wife driving by the coast of a Nordic city. The sun is shining and we stop in a small harbor with many pretty girls. I don't want to be there with her but we anyway go out and I realize that she has put back on our wedding ring.

I am leaving a meeting room together with a curator when a Polish artist friend starts to talk about his work. He then shows us a picture of him with a TV on his head. I already knew about it but then he shows other pictures of all the many TVs he had and of him dressing like a stereo man.

I am on a stage taking care of a very big and brown horse. He is actually moving too little and he is really willing to let me put a saddle on him. I do so and get ready to go for a ride but a beautiful blond girl ties her old white dress around one of the stirrups and starts slowly walking with him.

I am sleeping in an old apartment when a Spanish girl comes home. She gets her legs around mine but I don't want to fuck her and move away. I actually realize that she is all made of different kinds of green leaves. She awaits for me standing with her arms open and I go back to camouflage.

I am at an airport waiting when a steward appears but he tells me that I have to pay to check-in in advance. I actually show him my ticket and he directs me to a cheap airline. As I think that I could have traveled by train I meet my professor and tell him about my studies but he is too old.

A famous comedian goes with his girl and another couple for a drink. They end up in a night club but it is all reserved. They manage to bribe a waiter and get a whole table for themselves. It is actually on the deck of a cruise. They toast but he refuses to drink unaware that it will soon set sails.

I am in a living room with my ex wife and a few friends. My best friend is on the opposite side with a girl and tells my ex wife that I was having sex with the latter. They are actually having sex and he is about to come but I can't find any condoms and he has to pull his penis out.

I get in a small gift shop and meet my cousin and his family. I actually start talking with him and pet my little cousin. His father is actually holding him and I suddenly remember that he has been diagnosed with cancer. I pull away from him but then try to talk like I had no reactions.

I get in an ice cream shop and order two flavors. I am actually served by my Chinese boss' daughter. The ice cream is all melted and I notice that she is calling the cops. I then get out of the place and start running on a side street before they catch me. I hear the sirens but they are firemen.

I am in a small village and start chopping a birch tree with a sheet of paper. It is actually rotten at the bottom and I find it easy to chop. It falls and I realize that I can get imprisoned for that. I then run away and a red security car starts chasing me. They block me in a parking lot but let me go.

I am at the university and hear my professors looking at an art book. They discover that it is mine and I suddenly get a letter where they will evaluate me for a scholarship. I then walk to my car with a girl and she wants to leave the windows all open even if I try to keep them down just a bit.

I am seating around an oval table with my relatives. I then notice how we are all seating next to our closest relatives. As I look around I realize that it is the case of everyone but me who has divorced parents. I am not their biological relative either and the chair next to me is actually empty.

My aunt tells me about my cousins playing a video-game of a water buffalo circumnavigating some monsters. They don't seem to react but actually have a white bull to fight for them. There is a character climbing inside his throat with his naked mother. He tries to find the bull's weak spot.

Some bad guys are meeting on a terrace when two persons show up. One of them is pretending to be blind and one of the bad guys starts playing with him. He actually gets on him so that they can read a book together laying on the floor. The blind person opens his eyes and almost gets caught.

I walk to a museum in the city and find that there was a metro station going there directly. I go in following a father with his two sons. As we wait in line to buy our tickets the youngest one farts repetitively. I starts offending him in English but they finally get their ticket and go in the museum.

I am with my dead grandmother and she takes me in an old bar. Some old men are renovating it but I find that there is a nice dancing floor inside and they could open a gallery instead. My grandmother then warns me about an old communist who used to throw stones at his rich grandfather.

I am at home at an old classmate's apartment and go to bed but then realize that he has a snake in the house. I then make sure that he is not in the room but find him. I rush in the dark living room and hold myself up on a door. As I find the courage to step down I see his florescent eyes.

I get in a family shop to buy an old laptop but they only have an old version. I then explain to the owners' daughter that I need something lighter. She then takes me in the basement and opens up a safe box. They only have few other laptops inside and I choose one even though it is pink and old.

I am with my parents at night walking the street of an old town. We get in front of a big house and they stop. My stepfather's old assistant lives there and he comes out to greet us. His son is also with him and they are about to introduce us but he is too concerned with the economic crisis.

I am in a university campus attending a lecture with a girl I love. I wish to talk to her but she is with her other friends. I then go out of the building to a little café where to buy something warm for us to drink. I order two cappuccinos but the bartender gives me two glasses of something else.

I am with my kid when my ex wife hears a political speech on the radio. We then turn on the TV but find the other candidate giving another speech. He is black and I show my kid how serious his face is. As the camera zooms in he actually crosses his eyes making him really funny.

I am on a platform that the train is about to live but my ex wife has not yet arrived. I then tell my kid to yell if they train leaves and I go downstairs to look for her. She is actually going upstairs with two big bags. One of them has my bike inside and I take it from her to put in the train.

An American couple is traveling in the desert and gets kidnapped by three Russians. One of them explains their mission but the American man only wants to know where they are going. Another tells them that they are going to an American city where trains have gold roofs of Russian churches.

We are on a cruise about to reach Finland where my Russian friend lives. I then look for his phone number and find one badly written in my notes. I give it a shot and he actually answers. I go out to wait for him in a secondary exit. We meet but he is not able to host us and I ask for an hostel.

I meet my old friends in my sister's apartment. My best friend is also there and I notice that he is becoming bold. He is actually very distressed with his work and tells us of a big fine he had to pay. We then think of eating and my sister starts cooking broccoli although I see a big pack of ravioli.

I am in a kitchen with two American guys with long hairs who start singing a rock song from their band. I don't know it but also start drumming and singing with them. I am actually pretty good and tell the girlfriend of one of them that we can play that music on a long journey across America.

I am with my old Jewish girlfriend setting up an antenna to capture the energy of a lighting. We then wait to film the event when it actually occurs but it is too powerful and I don't manage to point the camera at the lighting. There is an underground generator connected but it gets overloaded.

I am in a room with a group of musicians who are leaving after a gig together. I then help them cleaning and start picking up the old pillows of a green sofa. My Indian musician friend is also there and really liked these pillows but they are actually from my ex wife and she wants to be paid.

I am in my ex wife apartment at night talking with my Polish friend. He tells me that there have been two waves of freezing weather in the south of Poland already. I then tell him that it is actually colder than where we are now up north and start worrying about our trip there.

I am in a kindergarten classroom when the mother of a kid comes with two wolves. The black one is domesticated and follows the white one that is wild. I try keeping it on the side but the latter wolf stops in front of me. I am afraid but finally the black wolf scaries him away.

I am swimming with a girl when another girl swim past us really fast. The former is a policeman and wants to arrest her. We then get on a cruise passing nearby her standing on the water like a saint. I try to ask her name but she is too far. The police woman tries and we start checking her up.

I am walking with some old friends in an empty market. It is big but it is getting dark and I suddenly hide away from them. My best friend looks for me and I give it up but ask him to show me what he wanted to show me. He then takes me to a stand that has antique stuff out and unattended.

I am in a room with some guys and one of them pulls out a foldable leather chair. I also want to buy one of them and ask him for the price. He then starts his laptop and starts looking in his profile where he has a picture of him making out with another guy. He assures me that it is just a joke.

I am on a taxi with two guys driving on a highway out of an ancient Roman city. As we are almost out one of the guys tells the driver to take an ancient road. It actually going to take us right back to the historical center and I try to tell them that but they don't listen to me.

I am on a mountain with a guy waiting for a friend. We should hike but we don't know where. I recognize a mountain on one side and tell him that we must be over a city but then see a glacier ahead. There is a mountain with a big iron cross and I guess that it must be there we are hiking to.

I am driving to my new apartment along a beautiful river. I feel very happy as there are mountains ahead and the city is really pretty. I start going through it and pass under some old arches. I then park the car and find a very advanced military car. It is actually a camper from my country.

My small son is backing up from my parents' old house when the car runs out of gas. There are many cars behind it and I have to push it on the side. We then get in my parents' place where my neighbour's small boy is playing soccer. The ball gets towards me and I score by kicking it over him.

I am in an Ukrainian town with my stepfather and sister. I look around for a place to buy food and find a cheap restaurant serving a dish of fish. I order for all of us and pay but get only few grind carrots. I then ask for more and they get us wild meat but my stepfather tells me that it is toxic.

I go to visit my Norwegian colleague in his new flat. Our Greek architect friend is also there and I decide to leave. I actually go through a window in the wall but cannot close it from the opposite side. The Greek friend then comes to help me and shows me how to pull down a wooden handle.

I am with my son shopping in a big store and we come out to a restaurant where his mother is waiting. It is actually outdoor and we seat down together for a drink. She actually keeps standing and demands that we have another baby together even though we have just recently separated.

I am in a café talking to my ex wife's colleagues. Her boss wants to go somewhere to write and I start to suggest him places with another guy. He actually wants to make it to Argentina and I tell him of a Canadian friend who was actually writing a book there. I then suggest him to write in cafés.

I am in the courtyard of my son old kindergarten in China. He is actually attending a Swedish class and I decide to put him in the English one. I then go and check it but the kids are too young and the teacher speaks English very low.

I am seating on a bus next to my old cousin when they put the new film of a Japanese studio I like. I then try to get her attention but she is talking to another guy. As I am about to put my hand over her shoulders I grab her small breast with my other hand but she gets upset and I kiss her.

I am in an agency seating with two blond women for a contract. One of them is old and tells me where to sign but the young one contradict her and tells me to fill in other parts of the contract. The older lady tells me not to listen to her and I get ready to leave but the young lady starts crying.

I am walking in a Russian city with my ex wife carrying bags and she goes ahead of me. There is a big escalator going inside a mall and she waits me there. We go up together and I realize that it is where my uncle has invested his money. The escalator starts making noises but we reach the top.

My stepfather is driving up the mountain. There are two young locals with us and we suddenly see on a turn a lot of eels from a video-game they are discussing. I then ask them if they ever eat them and they say they do with imported snails as local ones are poisonous. My stepfather disagrees.

I am showing a girl an interactive map of a beautiful beach. She was actually there already and shows me where she used to walk with a guy she met. I actually want to show her a beach on the opposite side and drag the view to a little bay. I am not sure what is going to be but it turns good.

I am checking out of an hotel with a Russian colleague. I talk to the receptionist together with her and find out that we will have to pay most of the fee. I expected the our work to be paying but I still have some money in my account and decide to pay anyway but get some candies before I leave.

I am on a beach playing with my philosophy professor's kids. I actually step on some small glass crabs and break them. My professor doesn't mind it and starts molding a glass mass with his hands. I should then help his son to make a new glass model but he first tells me to wash my hands.

I am in a dark room with a small crowd watching a virgin Azerbajian researcher being fucked on a platform from behind. As the experiment finishes we all leave the room and walk out in the day light. I then notice that a blond girl gets really close to him but then realize that she is lesbian.

I am in a pub and climb over the bar to hang from a beam. As I am about to do so the bar tender tells me that it is not allowed. I then go back to seat with my friends but hang from another beam saying that we should burn the place. The bar tender comes to serve us but do not reproach me.

I am seating at a café along the road and start talking to a guy. He is very interesting but suddenly drops the conversation and goes down to a bus stop. A yellow old bus comes making allot of pollution and he actually gets on. He is going to town although there was a newer bus behind us.

I am walking with my colleagues and come to a small park next to the water. We then walk down to it and come to a small column from where we can look all the park. It is very small but I start joking and say to everyone that we should construct a museum there.

I get in an hardware store and find the acrylic paint I wanted. There are different colors but the owner tells me that it is their last stock. I then take a few colors and go inside a storage room to try them. I actually start eating but the owner opens the garage door and I pretend to try the colors.

I am at a seminar when we start talking about a paper. No one has really anything to say but I have actually read it and I start to lecture about it. I am really fluent and keep on talking till I explain it all. As I am done with it I wish to talk about another paper but I am not sure I read it well.

A big bomb is exploded on the Russian sea side. There is actually a father with his small kids on the beach but they only get a cloud of smoke against them. My son is bathing in a big hole and tells me to come and bath with him. I then take my clothes off and join him and the other kids.

I am with my wife and kid up a small mountain and decide to take a sky-lift down. We then prepare to jump on one and a man comes to help us. He actually holds the first sky-lift available and my wife gets in first but I barely manage to take my kid in before the man leaves us abruptly.

I am seating on the grass next to a lake with two colleagues. One of them is Turkish and tells me of a beautiful Finnish city. It also had a nice lake but this disappeared after the Russian took it over and stopped removing the weed. I then say that they should also stop in the lake ahead of us.

I am walking in a park with my ex wife. We come in front of an old brick building with a very weird monkey hanging over a door. I then notice that it has a small bird beak instead of a nose. As I try to show it to my wife I realize that I am with another woman who is much shorter and darker.

I am seating in an ancient empty church looking through the illustrations of an old encyclopedia. A media professor is actually sweeping the floor and comes with the dust right below my chair. He wants me to move but I tell him to order that to me in Latin. He is actually able and does so.

I get in the big kitchen of an old house and meet my Swedish supervisor. He is preparing food but tells me that he agrees with what I wrote him about getting another supervisor. He then asks me if I know about the new Italian president and starts telling me about it but it is actually an old one.

I am on the beach where my Gambian room mate comes from. He actually shows me an island on the right where white people lives. I then see some white girls sun tanning all naked and wonder if I can construct my church there but realize that the island is already full with small houses.

I am looking at the destinations of a cheap airline and discover that they are flying oversea. They even go all the way to an airport in Texas and my father-in-law tells me that he has actually visited the place. I then ask him if he liked it and he says that he did but he is not really convincing.

I am with my American curator friend laying on the floor of a small room. There is actually a short girl that gets naked and lays on the bed next to us. Her breast is small and she is only one but I prepare to make love with her and my friend. She only starts talking to us and nothing else.

I am walking with my son in his mother's property and discover a beautiful hill. I then look out and find that it would have been the perfect place to build my church but we are already separated and it is too late. The main buildings are actually below but are too low and the view is not nice.

It is dark already and I am at the small station of my parents' city waiting on an platform. They announce that from the new year there will be a train going all the way to the capital in the North of Europe where my son lives. I am also going to a capital up North but it is actually to the West.

I am with a famous football player from England and he starts seducing a girl. He then lays on the side with only his underwear on and looks at her. She falls in love and I realize that he is posing like he did for a commercial. I then try to do the same but I am not as handsome and muscular.

I am in a rich neighbourhood at night and get stop by a lady on an expensive black jeep. She tells me that there has been allot of robberies and suggests me to talk to my parents. I then call my mom but she is not interested and starts scolding me about all the different girlfriends I had.

I am in the small kitchen of my apartment with a Bulgarian colleague. I then tell her to get some old spaghetti and serve myself with newly cooked tortellini. As I start to regret that I only offer her my leftovers she tells me how one has always to drive downhill when going south of her country.

I am at my parents' place checking my teeth in the bathroom's mirror. I realize that there is a long cavity that has eaten up a whole side. I immediately tell my mother and she says that it is not a problem for her to pay for my dentist. She then tells me a clinic to call but they might be closed.

I am walking down a mountain below my native village. As I feel the smooth rocks on the side I realize that there are some cars coming up. I then start to hurry down and find myself on a bike. As I reach the bottom there are several railroad bars closing but I manage to pass below them.

I am with a group of art students walking in a Canadian city where I also used to study art. I then tell one of them how I lived there as an homeless. He doesn't listen to me and we actually get on a smaller road and discover an old Greek neighborhood with plants of green and small tomatoes.

I am outside of an apartment when my Polish friend comes out with a blond girl. I am surprised because his Jewish girlfriend is with me but she doesn't get jealous. We then leave but I forgot the belt of my camera and go back to fetch it. The blond girl is inside and I salute her like a Fascist.

I am in a garden where some young people just had a party. I then go up to my new apartment but the staircase is without any fence and I start crawling. As I get inside I find my son's cousin who is also partying with her friends. I then try to ask her if it is her birthday but she does not reply.

It is night and I am seating in the back of a taxi between two middle age women. The one on my right has darker hairs and she asks me if I want to go play tennis with them. As I tell them about my dislocated shoulder the blond woman seating on the other side grab my penis and I come.

I am in an empty room of my new apartment with two men. They are both naked and their skin is covered with blood. I realize that I have been under drugs and they have been abusing me all night. I then leave the room but one of them follows me. He wants more but I jell at them to leave.

I am with my Japanese gallerist visiting another gallery where I will have a show. We start looking at a print and find bird shit on it. The owner of the gallery doesn't care but starts talking about my show. I don't really understand him but then realize that he is talking about an article I read.

I am with my son looking on the Internet for a place where to go on vacation. I find a cheap flight to an exotic island shaped like an heart. We then swim there and reach a beautiful pasture but my son's mother is also there and she tells me that we cannot go because of he has to attend school.

I am eating with two professors and explain them how the new researcher should be a nomad. They can't understand and I leave them to join the other students. They are waiting outside of the classroom and I go to the middle of the queue where I am reminded that I have skipped my lecture.

I am in the mountains with my son who starts biking downhill. I then follow him while looking at the beautiful landscape. We then reach a house where a group of young people is painting the windows green. I start sandpapering the one outside and realize that it is sufficient to blast them.

My old Swedish professor visits me. I then wish to show him my art work but he starts taking his music equipment out. He also brought a film for my kid and I put it on. An actor starts running past other characters going over a bridge. As I pause it I realize that my professor is a young worker.

I take the escalator down to a train station and see a girl with beautiful brown shoulders. I then hurry down to the platform and follow her but she suddenly turns to photograph. I am too close and I don't manage to get in the picture. I then wish to go back home but hesitate and loose my train.

I am walking in the suburbs and cross a special bird with big roses growing over it. I am actually afraid and try to scare it away. It actually keeps walking on the ground but I finally manage to make it really scared and it starts to run away. A person saw me and I wonder what he thought of me.

Two Chinese leaders are escaping through a forest when they come to a long cannon. An English guy explains them that it is from the old war. He then invites them inside the bunker but they are too many and it starts moving. They get out and the guy gives a peach to the shabbier leader.

I am booking a trip across Russia and get a first suggestion going from South. I then refresh the page and get a new suggestion going North. It crosses a big lake in the middle and reaches a peninsula on the opposite side. I actually want to go to China through Korea but it circumnavigates it.

I am at restaurant with my best friend. The cook is actually our friend and we start to make fun of the vulgar way he asks for a knife. We then stand up to pay and get in line behind two girls. My friend then starts talking on the phone pretending that he is going to make a pizza from scratch.

I am walking through a royal palace and come to a smaller room with a library. One of my colleague students is seating there reading a small book. The school has actually ended and I ask him if he always reads. He then stands up and I realize that behind us another student is also reading.

It is late at night and I am going to the art school where I used to teach. There is a party and I am actually without pants. I try to cover my genitals and ask a student where I can sleep. She then shows me an empty studio that was assigned to me. I go to sleep although the windows are broken.

I am going along an American beach with a local black guy. There is a residential area right in front but I don't want to live there because the villas are too close. We actually start walking inland next to a small river and reach his school. I wouldn't study there but the guy has a basketball field.