

01_143: "a month started in our new house in the netherlands suddenly feeling quite depressed as i did not manage to do much work with the bad weather and all the furniture inside but nonetheless managing to plant fruit trees and starting to build the bike shelter outside and then going to sweden and doing a lot of cooking and cleaning not only for august but also for jacek and brett and at last coming back to the netherlands resuming my work building a missing wall in the kitchen and dismantling and mounting a big closet in the bedroom"

02_135: "better nights sleep now with a proper bedroom both at august's place getting affected by some cheap soap operas with a lot of homosexual humor and then in the netherlands being strongly affected by my physical work renovating and particularly all my cement related work and my land in italy and the project i want to do there but also about all the terrorist attacks from the news"

03_078: "a period with quite some songs heard at on of myrthe's friends wedding and then much of it driving to sweden and back listening also to some old cds of lucio battisti which kept awake driving all the way through scandinavia at night and then taking notes of myrthe singing like a radio every sentence i would make and noting songs while at a chinese hairdresser in utrecht but also by august singing and from the movies we watched together to then be briefly in italy hearing songs at my usual café and in the netherlands while at shops and during a bask festival"

13_040: "painting done entirely in my newly set-up studio in culemborg finally spending some time with it every morning using cheering up colors out of the gray winter weather and even turning it upside down to better paint the margins"

15_073: "a month feeling happy while in stockholm with both august and jacek around overcoming temporary depressions taking long walks and at last coming to the netherlands enjoying the warmer weather and finding pleasure in working but for a very dreadful day helping myrthe fetching old furniture around but nonetheless having enough of a big world around me to keep me busy and happy although not enjoying very much all the social obligations i had to attend with myrthe in the weekend"

16_086: "a weather started in a very bright and sunny stockholm turned really cold but still very sunny walking my kid to karate before going back to the netherlands and find a warmer temperature beside one cold and gray day spent in harnem exploring the surrounding forest and then experiencing mostly a quite nice and warm weather allowing me to spend quite much time outside building a bike shed and to walk a bit by the river going a bit beyond what i had previously explored"

18_082: "a nice weather and low wind in the rich neighborhood of djursholm staying with my kid and being often outside before going to the netherlands and experiencing hard wind in my very big walk around the city of harnem and then again back in utrecht driving around to fetch old furniture with a wind almost blocking our van with a trailer attached and then little to no wind during my days spent doing brick work outside and more wind going to meet hanneke in amsterdam and later in breda at one of myrthe's uncles funeral"

14_085: "taking advantage of the too warm winter with great days of sun and walking extensively from the stockholm university along the botanical garden and back in the beautiful djursholm as well as walking there up and down to take my kid to karate and latter going back to the netherlands doing mostly renovation works but also managing an extensive walk exploring the forest over the city of arnhem and as well walking in amsterdam at night with myrthe to reach hanneke's place from the central station and walking a bit in culemborg going along the river and trying to explore new paths through the fields but ending up in too residential and industrial areas where i also had to walk to pick up our car"

09_105: "news read on-line detecting most casualties in syria with now a lot of nations bombarding terrorists but also civilians and other deaths with more terrorist attacks in the united states but mostly in the middle east and more rebel fighting in african countries as well as drowning immigrants in the mediterranean and minor natural catastrophes around the world"

04_074: "a month with a lot of fresh wind living in a very low polution town in holland but nonetheless experiencing inhaling quite some cement and lime while mixing them and the synthetic cheap color used by myrthe to paint the pillar in our bedroom as well as the metal of the broken stair to the attic i cut out before going back to fresh air and filling my lungs going with the race bike"

17_060: "another month of looking at the clouds most certainly while in stockholm walking to work to the academy and spending the rest of my time either running or with august seeing many different exotic animals and males as well as females interacting with them"

01_144: "a month initially spent in the netherlands doing very good work on my project resuming paintings and drawings but also doing much work in the house and in particular building the bike shelter mixing and using kilos of cement to then fly to sweden and doing quite some activities there cooking and cleaning but not so much while supervising and at last coming to italy and using for the first time in a long time a chainsaw learning to fell big trees and working with myrthe to make nice wood of them to make space to my cathedral"

10_104: "films of public spaces shot during a beautiful autumn spending quite some time both walking in sweden mostly in and around djursholm and the beautiful water side and the netherlands filming my tiny beautiful town of culemborg with the beautiful perspective of the main square as well as the beautiful forest of breda but even the urban environment like in amsterdam before going back to sweden"

07_071: "people met in sweden in the first place at the university a nice guy from england but with his parents from rome and then a girl also living in sweden but from genoa who i met in the metro and a polish graphic designer whom i hosted to help me with a website but never getting anything concrete from him and at last myrthe's friends met in the netherlands like hanneke and her boyfriend coeh photographed in amsterdam but also her crazy friend from rotterdam and an old landscape architect who had her studio below us and spoke italian"

05_057: "a story inspired by a fox i once saw in the swedish forest next to my son's apartment and the disease i heard it carries infecting all the blueberries but nonetheless also finding that the overall story is very much a reflection of my inner state ready to realize my art work in the field i bought in the mountains but somewhat having to spend my time elsewhere with myrthe"

12_052: "recordings of thoughts accomplished while exploring the wide countryside and walking along the wild river next to our new house in culemborg reflecting on my situation of living in quasi-exiled particularly from a germanic academia and pushing my idea of autonomous systems and the crafting of more intuitive philosophical systems"
