

STRETCHED Automatically rejected by any kind of establishment even the most cultural the documenting subject has had to learn to rely exclusively on the resources he could gather depriving himself from any commodities and giving them for rent.

INNOCENT While the documenting subject documents throughout his adulthood he in fact happened to spend it among his children fully taking care of them as almost his main duty maintaining no expectation but to grow his project among them and with them while showing them the world as well as showing it to the spectator of his resulting documentation.

ERECTUS Having chosen not to partake to any kind of establishment the documenting subject spends his day roaming around observing his nature and that of others always standing and on the move contrary to social figures mostly seated and kept within whatever stable.

ORIENTING The documenting subject effort is that of a nature inclined man trying via his project to orient himself in a highly artificialized environment with all the necessary artificial tasks from which he tries to abstain as if he was a man from another time exploring the modern space.

CHARACTERIZED Even if some elements within the documenting subject attempt to depict reality are fictional they too come to characterize his everyday reality beside in fact tell more of his subconscious and the way it also reflects reality itself or its layer of fiction imposed on it.

ASSIMILATING While the documenting subject has always been the most adventurous and daring among his fellows if there is anything boring about his project is right in the enforced normalization that his life has undertaken in the attempt to pursue it against the social scheme of what is expected from an individual with his background.

POWERLESS The documenting subject has always given up any form of power status that has been offered to him at first by his family and his nation and later in a foreign context at last taking happily up the role of a servant finding it the most suitable state to grow spiritually.

TRANSCENDENTALIST While at times been attacked by the right and at times been censured by the left the documenting subject has understood that it is all types of ideologically driven politics that he wants to stay away from and reject as a great danger not only to him but to humanity overall.