

I am at a party in a fancy apartment and decide to go to my room just next to it. I then lay in bed but cannot sleep and turn on the television. As I am searching for something to watch some of the people from the party comes to my room and I have to get up again and try to socialize with them.

I am in a caravan with my Spanish friends. Their daughter is unable to sleep and I take her in my arms and start to walk outside on the beach but kids are throwing fireworks there. I then walk back to a dock and start walking on that instead to make the girl asleep but there are also fireworks.

I am in a room getting ready to go to a dinner when I see that a lot of people write that they cannot attend. My sister is also there getting ready to join me. She has some money to give me but wants some back. There is a coin under my pouch and I give her that but she claims I have it stolen it.

I am at the entrance of a large hall where important politicians are gathering. Some bank directors suddenly come in and go to talk to all the foreign ambassadors. War was just declared against their countries and they want to know where they should transfer their money before it is too late.

I am on a bus seating next to a Peruvian girl who finds me very beautiful. In front of us is seating my spiritual friend who claims that he will be going to a brothel as soon as we will arrive to the next city. He wants to make love to a prostitute and then try to talk to her and become good friends.

I am at an airport seating with my parents when my mother and sister stand up and make it to the gate. I then tell my stepfather that it is also time to go. He finally stands up and we make it to my plane. He then gives me my passport but forgets to give me the visa and I leave without it.

I am in an apartment and look out of the window thinking that I have not been in touch with my new wife for a long time. As I turn around I see her seating at the table. She is bold and has way too many freckles on her face. Some form bigger spots and I really don't know how I went for her.

I am in a postal office and read an important letter for another person. The police wants me to censor the letter. I then pretend to put it in a box but just hide it in my jacket. As I walk out they want to search me and I just run and put the letter on the windscreen of a car before they arrest me.

I am in a small reception seating next to some American people. As I listen to their old fashion way of talking I realize that we have all been detained there for a long time. I then pretend to be blind and just try to figure out a way to walk out of there without being questioned by the receptionist.

I am next to some pine trees spying my Dutch boss. He is driving out with his jeep but then sees me and drives against me. I manage to avoid him and he starts chasing me on foot. I then pick some cones and hit him in the head but his wife is also there and I try to block her with some chairs.

I am in a small square where some new friends are having the birthday party of their daughter. I then hug them all and the father starts serving different cakes. The mother then shows a drawing of a dream the daughter made. There is a ruler and for each line the daughter repeated a chant.

I am in a casino and try our a slot machine. I actually put my credit card in upside down and it takes time to get out again. I finally put it in correctly and actually win a lot of bags with different chips. I go to the cashier and I get a check with a lot of money but I won't have any way to cash it.

I am visiting the garage of a famous racing pilot and he shows me his car. He is not happy about it and shows me the car of another pilot from his team. The latter is laying inside it and it is much easier to drive. We see it competing at the head of similar cars but it looks way too dangerous.

I am in an airport waiting for a plane to bring me to my daughter. Her mother has just died and I want to bring her to our new place but a lady who is reading the newspaper tells me that it is not possible. There are strong laws that will not allow my daughter to quit the school in her country.

I am in a park when some professionals start playing basketball. One of them is a very good player and throws the ball in the basket but it just doesn't fit inside. He then jumps to squeeze it and after the game I also try to jump. I am very good and think to talk to their coach if I can also play.

I am walking with two English friends in a city at night and find some posters on the sidewalk. I then go to a table to fold them and put them away but realize we are in front of the apartment of an old American friend. He is working on his laptop and I tell my friend to ring the bell and say hi.

I am walking in a forest path and I am about to go right when I realize that the city is on that side. I then keep to the left and even star running down to an opening where the forest can be seen from above. A Swedish guy is singing a song to his friends and I reply in Swedish that it sounds bad.

I am in our Dutch house and call my wife's aunt to tell her that I will not attend her seminar. She is desperate about it and I decide to go with a friend's small car. He drives and we soon reach a city and I try to turn my GPS on but end up in a dead end and cannot turn back to the highway.

I am walking with my daughter by a river and come to a small square with fountains. I want to keep on walking but then see that she is having fun and decide to let her play a bit. Meantime I talk to a local guy who tells me that we should not continue further because the roads gets tortuous.

I am in an empty apartment with my wife and let her in the kitchen while I look for mushrooms. I found many small ones in the bedroom but I don't know the kind. There are also two tall ones and I know we can eat them but they look too young. As I walk back to my wife the owner arrives.

I am in a pub with an hunter who is still upset with me and just walks upstairs. I then go back to my table and find that my Polish friend is there. He is no longer upset with me and I realize that he is a musician but also the hunter who went upstairs is a musician and they can play together.

I am walking with my family in an old city looking for a square where my wife and I already been once. I remember it with an old church and find one but then recognize another road we walked on. We take it and reach the actual old church where a baptism is taking place and we can't cross.

I am having a big party at my parents place. It is getting very late and I am afraid they might come home any time. They do come up in the end but they don't seem to bother about the mess. My spiritual friend is with them and I get to meet his old Canadian girlfriend. I shake hands with her.

I am in an art academy checking out with a class some lianas coming down a tree. They are too close to one another and I break some smaller lianas holding them together. One of the teachers gets very mad but I even step on top of the lianas and spread some wooden sticks with my feet.

I am attending the last speech of a conference. As the lights deem down the organizer comes seating next to me. We chat a little bit about the the best kind of intellectual. As I tell her that I don't believe in the academic type she lays her head on my shoulder and realize she is next to me to flirt.

I am driving a car down a very steep road. There is another car in front of me and I just move to one side but there are also some trucks there and I just break going right against one. The other car does the same going against another truck further down. I then take the lead to roll all the way.

I am walking in the countryside with my mountain neighbours' daughter. We reach a run down house with a peach tree outside and realize that our drunkard neighbour lives there. I then call her out asking for a lot of money but then show her that I am there with our neighbours' daughter.

I am flying over a Norwegian river with a lot of different birds all drinking from it. As I reach a medieval city the water gets very little and I meet my German artist friend who tells me that we are all gone be burnt by the sun. I then wonder what is then the point to work so hard on my project.

I am in a living room laying on the sofa with my youngest son. There is a movie I want to show him and use my phone to go to the page of the film director. There are many movies where he played as an actor but I managed to find one of his movies and play it. It shows a too violent old battle.

I am running very fast next to my bike and reach a supermarket. I then turn around and start walking but a carpenter is fixing the sidewalk. He has poured concrete on one side and I realized that I have done the other bit. Mine is very irregular and his is very straight but he had better tools.

I am in a workshop cutting a piece of wood with a curve to the end. I manage quite well to do the straight part but as I try to do the curve the wood breaks. I then decide to toss it but then think twice and just use it inside the construction I am making with many more piece stuck together.

I am in a hotel room getting a message ready to send to my wife. It is about a field trip organized by our children school and I have underlined in red the most important details. I finally send it but realize that in the background there is the photo of a pregnant woman standing to the left naked.

I am walking in the central park of an American city and come under a cement structure built inside a hill. In the front of it there is a grating with smoke coming out and I realize that inside is the city crematorium. A black guy then tells me what a nice smell comes now that they made it new.

I am in a nightclub that is late at night. There are two costumers left and the owner comes in the main hall to let us out. The guys want to stay and she gets naked and start cuddling with one. She then only focus on the other and they fell asleep on the sofa while it starts getting light outside.

I am in a laboratory with one Indian artist who is supposed to write me a letter of reference. I accidentally erased it and while he tries to retrieve it another artist congratulates me for my work. I was able to create an artificial snowfall using cabbage and we watch the video I made in a forest.

I am walking on a mountain path recording my thoughts when I see a lady approaching with a big dog. I go down the cliff waiting for her to pass but she stands looking at me. Suddenly more people with dogs approaches and even a black bull. As I stand up to see him only sheep comes forward.

I am on a balcony talking to a girl about a region down south. I have only been to the region north of it and I anyway have to answer the phone. It is my best friend inviting me for a concert. I accept and as I get ready to talk to the girl again another girl comes in and asks about the right region.

I am visiting the Italian capital with a friend and a young nun. We actually show her a tourist road she should take and then go in the main church. There are only few people waiting for the service and we seat in the front but my parents are there and they are very angry I did not go with them.

I am in a basement with my the boyfriend of my wife's best friend. We are actually seating in front of an old computer and I am showing him the new interface I built for my project. It looks very old and I am a bit ashamed of it but he seems interested although he admits he is becoming blind.

I am in a river with some friends ready to jump in the water when we read a sign saying that it is not allowed. I then start climbing up the cement wall next to it. As I reach the top I almost dive in the water but remember again that it is prohibited. I just try to climb back down but it is too hard.

I am in a house and meet an old Italian professor I knew from the Swedish capital. I then ask him if he still live in the same apartment but he tells me he bought a much bigger one. It was already big and expensive and I just wonder how him and his wife managed to afford an even bigger one.

I am at the party of an old cousin who introduces me to her two daughters. They are very young but I remember she had a daughter who now must be much older. She then takes me to another room and shows me how big her oldest daughter got. We then go back to the party to make a toast.

I am in a field reviewing a film I made there. It is quite okay but then show it to my wife and accidentally zoom in a wind turbine. It is actually much better but I shot the film with a cheap camera and I cannot crop it so much. I then wished I had a more professional camera even just for rent.

I am in the mountains with a woodman and telling to take my trees from our forest if he needs to. He is not interested and just tells me about my neighbour's son who was talking to him and started running down hill after realizing that his brother was already driving down with the tractor.

I am walking in an old road with a high school friend. He is still the same but gets closer to him to tell him how much older another classmate got. We actually get through an old stable and I stop to look at a joke for two oxen. In the middle there is a steering wheel and I show it to my friend.

I am standing outside a building and notice that there is a girl on the top floor. She is calling for her boyfriend and I realize that the room she is in is meant for flying and that there is no staircase. She then begins to throw all her stuff down and I finally find a ladder to get her safely down.

I am in a hangar taking pictures of my best friend hugging a girl. She doesn't want to turn the face towards me and a fat guy asks me what I am up to. I then show him my website but there are only small pictures of my friend. The menu icons are also pictures and I used them to navigate.

I am in our Dutch house seating on the carpet. My wife is in the kitchen and hands me a golden balloon. I can see that she has scratched it but I anyway try to blow some air inside. It starts to inflate but then some air starts to go out of the scratches and it takes the shape of a naked woman.

I am in my mountain village and see one of my neighbours trying to fish in a river I have never noticed. There are also some buildings on the other side and I realize that one is mine. I go in and even find that it has been renovated although my neighbours already parked their vehicles inside.

I am carrying a box and walk inside a small butcher shop. I need to fill the box with meat so that I can prepare a nice barbecue for my best friend. There are other people in front of me and I realize that the one ordering is my friend's father. I then take a photo of the latter to send it to my friend.

I am in a big hall and realize that local far right supporters are gathering there. I then keep a knife hidden under my sleeve and manage to get in a terrace where food is being served. I don't want anything but a guy gives me a huge piece of a traditional cake and I use my knife to cut it.

I am walking with my youngest son on a road over the hills. We first see a dead snake but as we are about to make a turn I can see the black tongue of another snake moving in the grass. My son doesn't see it and keep on walking. I then drag him towards me but the snake quickly reaches us.

I am going up a Bulgarian valley with an English man and tell about the other times I talked to an English man. Meantime I observe the beautiful nature but see that the villages are very filthy. As we pass one that is all abandoned several dogs approaches us and I try not to be afraid of them.

I am in a church but find it very boring and want to get out. As I try to do so I actually step on a fresco. I then realize that local young people are making new ones all around the church. I stop to check one guy who seems quite good even though he is talking on the phone and is not focused.

I am driving on a road to a campsite and decide not to follow the navigator and just improvise. I then take a side road and actually arrive to the campsite but have to leave the car in a residential area. I then get to my cabin and realize I already need to check out and just remove the bed sheet.

I am in the small square of our Dutch village walking next to the shops when I meet a mother with two girls. They are my daughter classmates and I wonder why they are not at school. As I try to ask them the shop next to me opens and I look into stuck of vegetables with the girls' mother.

I am checking out the web page of a competition for which I have designed an installation. It shows the winners of the previous two years and I realize that they have only painted fruits. Also for this year the topic is to paint fruit and I understand I will never win unless I will also do a painting.

I am in a laboratory where I left a prototype I have just built unattended on a table. Other students have built similar prototypes using the same components but a guy is really looking at mine. He is wondering what it is and I explain that it is a wearable computer with several cameras.

I am attending a conference where an Indian girl is presenting a video-game she made. She has now been playing for hours trying to us a dinosaur to kill another. Finally she manages and one person from the public asks her what kind of landscape she used. She then replay that it is Tyrolean.

I am with my daughter on a street and she asks me where she can play. I then tell her to do it in a small forest while I quickly go home on the other side. As we split a big bus arrives and I cannot see her anymore. I then try to go up the steps carved in a cliff but they begin going down again.

I am in a cafe getting two ice-cream when I meet an Italian friend who has also got me an ice-cream. It is a red ice pop in the shape of a doughnut. I actually don't trust it and just want to leave with my two ice-creams and go to my wife who is waiting for me. I finally manage to leave it with him.

I am in a classroom with an English teacher who gets all the students in a circle. If one says something the one on the opposite side has to reply. It gets very messy and I decide to leave but my daughter is with me and the guy at the reception doesn't want me to wait by the door and I get angry.

I am working on my laptop trying to set up a new operating system when I see with the corner of my eye that a phone application is being automatically installed. It is my uncle who is doing it and he manages to call me even though I have never shared my number. He wants me to work for him.

I am in a dark changing room getting my clothes on when I realize that one of my wife's friends is seating behind me. I then hurry up to get out of there but she starts talking to me about a bid she wants to make. I don't understand anything she says and just get out to tell my wife about her.

I am in a woman's house showing me how spacious it is. I don't find it so big but she tells me that she was looking for one in the capital and it was just too expensive. She then was tipped by a friend about this house in our village and bought for little money but I still find it is very expensive.

I am at a restaurant with my old friends and we get a private room all for ourselves. Some new friends are already inside and I play with the light but then take a seat with them. The table gets immediately full and my twin sister has to seat alone in another. I then stand up to seat next to her.

I am in one of my wife's friends house. She cannot pay the gas bills anymore and asks me how I try to divide the house so that she can rent half of it as a studio. I then go upstairs to inspect and find a nice attic. She wants to get rid of a wall to make it bigger but it could be a good reading room.

I am at my former job with my youngest son. They called me only for one day but there is really nothing to do. I then hang out with my Chinese colleague who is baking in the kitchen. The boss also comes and asks me if we can meet to discuss whether I can work full time but I don't want to.

I am at home working and realize that I soon have to go to my best friend's father to eat. As I get ready I find my friend and another old friend in the kitchen cooking pasta. We then agree that we should not go to his father anymore and we should just eat at home even though it is too early.

I am watching a movie about an old thief who is hiding from the staff of an hospital. He is actually behind a door and no one finds him. He then dress up like a patient and seat on a wheelchair but another man on a wheelchair starts asking him who is his doctor and the thief has to improvise.

I am going down the condominium where also the Italian fascist prime minister lives. She actually comes down after me and as I greet her the entrance door falls down on the sidewalk. She then goes to ask for help but I can see what the problem is. I just need my screwdriver to fix a screw.

I am at a restaurant with my best friend. We are actually done eating and I go pay for both. The guy at the cashier actually asks me where we are going and I explain that I usually I drive through the Swiss border to make it home but this time with my friend we go through the Austrian one.

I am in front of an internet provider waiting for him to open up. A car arrives but it is only a costumer. He actually enters and I realize that the door was open all this time. I then also enter although my youngest son is still in the car and the door is open. I try to quickly explain my problem.

I am at the gate where my parents live and ring the bell. I actually realize we are still in a fight and quickly move away in their dark garden. There are a lot of student walking through it and in the grass I find one of their smartphones. I wait for them to pass so that I can pick it up and leave.

I am building a house in a garden even though the neighbours are very angry about it. I try not to care and invent my own building method. I actually make two thin walls and fill them with branches but realize that the walls are made of snow and they will eventually melt when it is hot.

I am in my native highland saying goodbye to the parents of a dead friend. As we are about to depart I turn around and suddenly remember that I have seen their other son on television. I then tell him honestly of what I thought of him and the interview he has conducted with a famous actor.

I am in a cafe with my spiritual friend. He also has a girl on his side and she gives him a green candy from a package. As he takes it there is a blue candy underneath and I really don't want it but she anyway gives it to me. I then hold it in my hand while showing my friend my new camera.

I am walking in a main street with a group of old people. They are organizing an exhibition with my work and take me in the back of a restaurant. They know the cool there but the owner has no place for us and just let us seat on a moon shaped table although he really wants us to leave.

I am on a hill and get some thoughts in my head I want to record. My twin sister is actually there and doesn't want to let me alone. She actually lays down with her boobs out and wants me to make love to her even though we are siblings and she is married. I then realize she is another woman.

I am in a car with my oldest son driving up a state highway. We are actually going up north and it is getting much more cloudy. It is too cold now to be on a beach and I just tell my son to drive to the highway but he takes the wrong road and we end up in the tiny roads of a town by the coast.

I am in a small gallery where a group of three Swedish artists are exhibiting. Their work is most stupid and I make fun of them with another artist but he tells me that on of them is really good. He then shows me his catalogue and we even find flat objects between the pages showing his exhibits.

I am sweeping up the floor of my new garage. There is a lot of water at the end and as I try to push it out to the entrance I realize that I am in a football field. Some kids starts to play and I keep on sweeping the water away but it is so much that it feels like I am some kind of swimming pool.

I am on a hill with my Polish friend. It has been a long time we haven't seen each other but we must depart again. He is desperate to take a walk with me and there is even a nice path in front of us. We could walk all the way to the airport although I am sure most of it is flat and in the traffic.

I am in the terrace of a cafe seating with my wife. She is drinking her coffee on a bench while I am just on the ground below her. In front of me there is a straight canal leading up to an abandoned factory. It is covered with wild ducks and I decide to film them although it is a private terrain.

I am at the bottom of a hill and start photographing couples walking down towards me. I don't mind to bother them but see that one couple has kept on purpose above the hill. In front of them there is a big pine tree and I realize that it would be much more beautiful without the lower branches.

I am in the kitchen of our Dutch house with a Mexican young man. We have actually adopted him and I realize that we will be part of our family now. He is already cooking for us and I ask him where he is from. He is from a Southern Mexican city where I have been traveling as a young man.

I am in the apartment of a doctor together with a fat man who is searching for some documents. He is an homosexual and wants to come back to the apartment in the following day and make love to me. For him it is a given and I start to insult him really bad until he actually leaves the place.

I am at an important ceremony standing in the back of many seated ladies. They are all very elegant and are waiting to hear whether they will be selected to follow an important attorney on a foreign mission. One of the lady seated in the front gets excluded and she comes towards me crying.

I am in the bedroom I had as a teenager working with an American programmer on my website. It is actually a very old version he has but he really want s to make it perfect so as to get a label showing it is a secured site. I find it a waste of time as with my laptop I am working on a new version.

I am in a small airplane with an Italian guy who wants to do some paragliding. He actually has no suite for it and we drive to a forest house where he gets changed. Outside is still dark and the pilot thinks the suite is too summerish and he should wear something warmer but the guy doesn't.

I am in a big carpentry shop and ask the man working there for a pink plaster. He then takes me to a large machine and then fetch a bucket with the pink pigment. It is very liquid and I wonder if it ever going to work out. I then ask him if there is something missing but he doesn't answer me.

I am reviewing some old movies I made and fins one of myself seating on a mountain peak. Looking at the mountains all around I realize that I am near my native highland. The mountains look more beautiful and the video shows me singing and crying. Also the quality of the video is very good.

I am in a parking lot with my children running to the street around it. I warn them that a car could come and realize that one spot is reserved for the Fascist prime minister and that the lot used to be a Roman bath. On a fence we even find small sculptures of the heads of the three emperors.

I am in one of my mountain fields going with a stick over the grass to see if I should cut it. One of my neighbours' daughter is with me and we find a lot of wood I cut long ago. It is still good and I go fetch my tractor but as I put the chart with a chain behind her father starts driving away with it.

I am in the small apartment of a police girl who has invited me for dinner. I see her coming back with her colleagues carrying a lot of toilette paper. She then goes to take a shower and I start putting the paper rolls in order but find that an old friend is also in the shower giving her a massage.

I am outside a gas station waiting for my wife to pee. I then start drawing a horse but then a German woman challenges me to do another drawing in the back. I still want to do the same and she does a much better horse using a colorful pen. I am impressed and ask is she is also an artist.

I am at a dinner with the members of a Chinese mob. The force me to eat a soup made with frogs and I just do it while they wait to eat theirs. As I am finished the boss wants me to follow him but I still have a frog in my mouth and I throw inside a compost with a lot of other wild animal parts.

I am walking at night in a dark forest and reach an outpost managed by some black people. They are waiting for a boat to come on the nearby river with a petrol supply. As it finally arrives I imagine them filling up the empty silos for the region but everyone just get petrol for themselves.

I am in a newly built square checking out the tiles on the ground. They are placed perpendicularly to one another a slowly descend to a small harbour. The young designer is there and he secretly tells me that the reason he chose for this design is to be able to skateboard down the square.

I am at a lecture chaired by the organizer of a festival. I am actually helping pulling down a rolled up screen to project his presentation but notice that my work is printed on it. I then realize I am also part of the festival even though my work has nothing to do with the theme and I better resign.